

OSAMA AL-MOSA

Osama Al-Mosa is an ICF-accredited Professional Certified Coach (PCC) for Enlightened Leadership. With a style that is practical, direct, down-to-earth, and very results-oriented, he creates an effective and transforming experience for his clients that boosts their personal growth and leadership potential, both inside and outside of their work environment.

Osama is highly successful with senior leaders and managers at all levels due to his prior career at the senior management level in international business environments and his familiarity and ease with their challenges and needs. He has been coaching clients since 2010, in local and multinational organizations in private, government, and non-governmental sectors across the Middle East, Asia, and Africa, including in Cote d'Ivoire, Egypt, Ethiopia, India, Iraq, Jordan, Korea, Lebanon, and Saudi Arabia. His areas of expertise include corporate and executive coaching, business and performance coaching, leadership development and training, leadership evaluation, organization relationship and systems coaching (ORSC), career transition, and mentoring. His previous professional career spans 18 years working for large multinationals in a variety of roles at senior manager and director level in sales, sales and marketing, human resources, and general management roles, and in countries across the Middle East and Arab region.

Osama is certified in brain-based coaching by the Neuro-Leadership Institute, certified as a co-active coach by the NY Institute of Technology ((Jordan), and a trained coach in ORSC™ by the Center for Right Relationship (CRR Global). He is a certified DISC trainer and is an experienced user of other leadership assessments and tools, including 360 feedback and emotional intelligence processes. He is a prolific blogger and author of several coaching articles.

Osama holds a bachelor of science in pharmaceutical sciences from the University of Jordan, and an executive MBA from the Management Center Europe (Brussels).

His native language is Arabic and he is also fluent and coaches in English. He volunteers professionally to assist entrepreneurs and startups. He enjoys gardening and painting in his spare time.
